

²
CLAIM FOUR: (NEW)

A member having means to aid in the application and retention of medication on a specific area of the skin of an individual comprising:

a1 (a) a bandage member having a first surface and a second surface said bandage member having a medication receiving opening extending from said second surface into said bandage member ;

(b) adhering means on said bandage member to adhere said bandage member to the skin of the individual.

³
CLAIM FIVE: (NEW)

A bandage member having means to aid in the application and retention of medication on a specific area of the skin of an individual comprising:

at cont.
(a) a bandage member having an upper surface portion and a lower surface portion, said bandage member having an opening extending from the upper surface of said bandage member through said bandage member to said lower surface portions, said opening being adapted to receive medication through said opening from the upper surface portion to pass through said opening on said lower surface portion to reach the specific area of the skin of an individual under said opening;

(b) means to adhere said bandage member to the skin of the individual.

⁴
1 CLAIM SIX: NEW

2 An improved bandage member, such bandage member having means to aid in the
3 application and retention of medication on a localized area of the skin of an individual
4 comprising:

5 (a) a flexible member having an upper surface portion and a lower surface
6 portion with said flexible member having an open spatial channel extending completely
7 from said upper surface portion to and through said lower surface portion, said channel
8 having an upper surface and a lower surface opening;

9 (b) adhering means on said flexible bandage member;

10 (c) perimeter means disposed around said lower surface opening on said lower 11 surface portion, said perimeter means extending away from said lower surface portion.

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

all cont.